Twelve South SurfacePad for iPad mini 5 - Cognac

Twelve South Cognac Leather SurfacePad for iPad mini 5 gives your iPad mini everyday protection in a design that stays slim, feels premium, and works naturally with how you use your device. Wrapped in rich cognac leather, it protects both sides, supports comfortable viewing and typing angles, and adds seamless open-to-wake, close-to-sleep convenience.

- Ultra-slim leather protection for front and back
- Hands-free multi-angle viewing stand
- Built-in typing wedge for a better writing angle
- Secure adhesive attachment with residue-free removal
- Open-to-wake and close-to-sleep support

Ultra-slim leather protection for front and back
This case is designed to protect without adding the bulk of a traditional plastic shell. The leather wrap shields the front and back of your iPad mini while keeping the device's profile clean and unobstructed. Inside, the hardback front cover is lined with soft felt to help protect the screen from scuffs.

Hands-free multi-angle viewing stand
Fold the cover into its stand positions to watch videos or take FaceTime calls without holding your iPad. The support is built into the cover, so it's always ready when you want a stable, comfortable viewing angle.

Built-in typing wedge for a better writing angle
When it's time to type, the cover folds into a wedge that raises your iPad mini to a practical angle for writing emails, taking notes, or working on the go. It's a simple change that makes longer typing sessions feel more natural.

Secure adhesive attachment with residue-free removal
The case attaches securely to the back of your iPad mini using an adhesive surface designed to hold firmly while in use. If you ever choose to remove it, it's made to lift away cleanly without leaving residue behind.

Open-to-wake and close-to-sleep support
Open the cover to wake your iPad mini and close it to put the device to sleep. This helps keep use effortless while also protecting the screen when you're done.
