Pela AirPods Case Compostable - Lavender

Pela AirPods Compostable Case protects your AirPods from everyday drops and scratches while reducing plastic waste. Made from plant-based materials, it combines a comfortable grip with durable protection and a lower-impact material choice.

- 100 percent compostable, plant-based materials
- Durable protection from drops, scratches, and dents
- Soft, flexible feel with added grip
- Safer material formulation, tested for everyday peace of mind
- Supports ocean cleanup through contributions from sales

100 percent compostable, plant-based materials
This case is made with Flaxstic, a blend of compostable bioplastic elastomer and flax straw materials. It's designed to break down in composting environments instead of lasting for centuries like conventional plastics, helping you reduce long-term plastic waste.

Durable protection from drops, scratches, and dents
Built for daily use, the case helps shield your AirPods against common wear and tear. The plant-based construction is designed to be tough enough for real life, while keeping your AirPods protected in your bag, pocket, or hand.

Soft, flexible feel with added grip
The case is designed to feel good in your hand, with a soft, flexible texture and a bit of grip. It's easy to handle, comfortable to carry, and helps reduce the chance of slips during everyday use.

Safer material formulation, tested for everyday peace of mind
The material has been tested to be free of phthalates, BPA, cadmium, and lead, and is verified to meet child safety standards in the United States, Canada, Europe, Australia, and New Zealand. It's a premium material choice focused on both performance and responsible composition.

Supports ocean cleanup through contributions from sales
Pela donates a percentage of sales to ocean cleanup and preservation initiatives. Choosing this case supports efforts that help reduce plastic pollution and protect marine environments.
