- Charge two devices at once
- Smart power management
- Built-in device holder
- Compact design for travel
- SGS-certified charging

Charge two devices at once
Two USB-A ports let you charge your smartphone and a second device simultaneously from a single wall socket. Keep your everyday devices powered without needing separate wall chargers.

Smart power management
The charging system automatically detects connected devices and adjusts power delivery accordingly. Its chipset distributes the available power between the two ports as needed.

Built-in device holder
Use the charger as a dock to hold your device while it charges. This practical two-in-one design combines charging and device support in one accessory.

Compact design for travel
The pocket-sized design is easy to carry between home, work and your next destination. Support for 100 to 240 V AC input makes it suitable for use with different mains voltages.

SGS-certified charging
The Rock is certified by SGS and built with quality components for dependable everyday charging. Integrated power management controls how power is delivered to your connected devices.
