Super-slim full leather design that follows every contour of iPhone XS Max

The Full Leather Case is built around a clean, minimal silhouette that closely follows the contours of the iPhone XS Max. By fully wrapping the case in premium leather, we keep the profile impressively slim while giving your phone a sleek, unified look. This slim design enhances the design of your iPhone instead of concealing it, delivering a refined balance of elegance and everyday practicality that slips easily into your pocket or bag.

Signature full-grain vegetable-tanned leather that develops a personal patina

Mujjo's signature full-grain vegetable-tanned leather is selected for its premium quality, soft touch, and durability. The natural grain is deliberately preserved, then enriched through a meticulous tanning process and treatment with aniline oil to deepen and refine the color tones. Over time, the leather breaks in and forms a unique patina that reflects your individual use, giving your case a distinct and personal character the longer you own it.

Refined button and camera detailing for effortless everyday use

Every detail of the case has been carefully considered for both aesthetics and usability. The volume and power buttons are fully covered in leather, enhancing the smooth, continuous look while remaining responsive and easy to press thanks to an optimized button profile. Around the camera and mute switch, a subtle leather chamfer curves inwards, offering a refined visual detail that also makes it effortless to access the mute button and ensures the camera sits neatly within the protective edge.

Protective raised bezel for added screen and camera protection

Despite its slim silhouette, the case is engineered to help protect your iPhone XS Max from everyday wear. The leather rises approximately 1 millimetre above the edge of the glass, forming a raised bezel that helps keep the screen and camera away from abrasive surfaces when you place the phone face down. This thoughtful detail adds everyday protection without adding unnecessary bulk, preserving both the design and integrity of your device.

Satin-like Japanese microfiber interior for soft, secure comfort

Inside, the case is lined with an exceptionally fine Japanese microfiber that is both strong and featherlight. This satin-like material cushions your iPhone XS Max, helping guard against scratches and scuffs on the back and sides. The slim, padded lining complements the rigid structure of the case and the soft exterior leather, creating a secure, luxurious environment for your phone every time you snap it into place.
