Suited for MagSafe and Qi2-compatible phones

The Twelve South Curve Nano is designed with a powerful magnetic holder that seamlessly attaches to MagSafe and Qi2-compatible phones. The magnetic surface securely holds your device without the need for clips, clamps, or extra tools, ensuring your phone stays in place during use, no matter the setting.

Adjustable viewing angles for portrait or landscape mode

Enjoy complete flexibility with Curve Nano's adjustable angle feature. Whether you're making a video call in portrait orientation or streaming your favorite show in landscape mode, the stand adapts effortlessly to suit your preference. This versatility ensures you get the most comfortable and ergonomic viewing experience every time.

Durable aluminum build with a non-slip silicone base

Made from high-quality aluminum, the Twelve South Curve Nano is as durable as it is stylish. The stand's non-slip silicone base and ring work together to ensure stability and keep your phone securely in place, even on slick or uneven surfaces. It's the perfect combination of function and sophistication.

Foldable with a flat design and includes a travel case

Travel with ease thanks to Curve Nano's collapsible design. The stand folds completely flat, making it compact enough to fit into the included travel case. Whatever your destination, the Curve Nano ensures you have a reliable and portable hands-free solution for your phone.

Lightweight, portable, and perfect for work or travel

Weighing almost nothing but delivering top-tier functionality, the Curve Nano is a must-have for professionals, travelers, and casual users alike. Whether you're at the office, relaxing on the couch, or waiting at the airport, this lightweight and portable stand is always ready to enhance your experience.
