Shockproof protection for demanding everyday use

The UAG Plasma Case is designed with a rugged armor shell and impact-resistant bumpers to help protect your Surface Pro 9 from drops, shocks and daily wear. It is ideal for mobile workers, field professionals, healthcare environments, offices and anyone who needs dependable device protection throughout the day.

360-degree rotating hand strap for secure handling

The integrated rotating hand strap gives you a secure and comfortable grip in both portrait and landscape orientation. Whether you are walking between meetings, presenting information, working on site or using your tablet while standing, the strap helps reduce the risk of accidental drops while keeping the device easy to control.

Built-in kickstand and Surface Pen storage

The built-in kickstand lets you position your Surface Pro 9 for viewing, typing, presentations or video calls. Dedicated Surface Pen storage keeps your pen close and secure, so it is always ready when you need to write, sketch, sign documents or take notes.

Tested to military drop-test standards

The case meets MIL STD 810G 516.6 standards for drop protection. It has been tested with 26 drops from a height of approximately 122 cm, helping ensure dependable protection against real-world impacts and rough handling.

Suitable for medical and professional environments

The Plasma Case has been tested for use around materials commonly found in medical environments. It is certified to withstand 168 hours of exposure to medical-grade cleaners, making it a practical choice for healthcare professionals and other workplaces where regular cleaning is required.
